CATRIONA CUSTOMER SERVICES

Relaxing with my dogs, Lenny and Roxie, is one of my favourite ways to spend time. I like to go running to try and keep fit and having the dogs run and play alongside me helps the miles to fly by.

I used to host a weekly show on our local radio station, so you can imagine that finding a job where I spend all day communicating directly with people was right up my street. There's something really satisfying about solving any problems a customer might have and ensuring that the kitchen they get is one which is right for them. It's a great feeling to work as part of a team which is dedicated to customers and to leave the office each night knowing that you've done everything you can to help.

I'm part of a local running group which is open to runners of all abilities, and it's a good feeling to be part of a team here too, encouraging each other to do the best we can.

Running is a great way to unwind at the end of a long day – but there's no way it's going to help me keep up with Lenny and Roxie.

GORDON DIGITAL MARKETING

Being on your own on the road, with the only challenges being the hills and the headwinds, is an invigorating way to spend some alone time.

I take a lot of satisfaction from my work but sitting at a desk all day can quickly lead to the dreaded “middle-age spread”, which is why I decided to take up road cycling. There are times when the wind and the rain makes it feel more like torture, but I try to do at least 70 miles a week. I’ve got plenty of incentive to keep fit and healthy as I’ve got a four-year-old at home who is hard to keep up with!

I’ve been involved in digital marketing and website creation in one form or another since 2002 and despite all that’s changed in that time it’s always been clear to me that the best way to reach customers is to inspire them.

Helping our customers find their perfect kitchen is always a pleasure, and I find real satisfaction in letting them see how much enthusiasm, skill and craftsmanship our designers and cabinet makers put into the product.

JENNIFER ACCOUNTS

Working in the accounts department of a national kitchen company might seem an odd fit for someone who considers themselves to be creative, but there's never a dull day and I'm always finding something new to learn.

When I'm not at work I'm usually found in the kitchen working on a baking and decorating project. My interest started when I decided to make my son's first birthday cake and since then there's rarely a week goes by where I'm not in the kitchen working on my latest creation.

I can be a bit of a perfectionist, which can sometimes cause extra work when I'm decorating cakes but is probably a good thing when it comes to getting customer invoices right.

My dad was actually the first ever employee here (these days he's in charge of the joinery department) and he was delighted when I joined him at such a renowned company.

I'm always up for trying something new so when people ask me to make something for them I tend to say yes and then worry about the details later, which has led to some challenging projects over the years.

I love my job and being a mum and spending time in the kitchen. Somehow I manage to find the time to do all three. I wouldn't have things any other way.

RODDY JOINER

These days, spending time chatting to people all over the world is nothing special, but amateur radio enthusiasts like myself have been doing it for decades and long before the internet was ever invented.

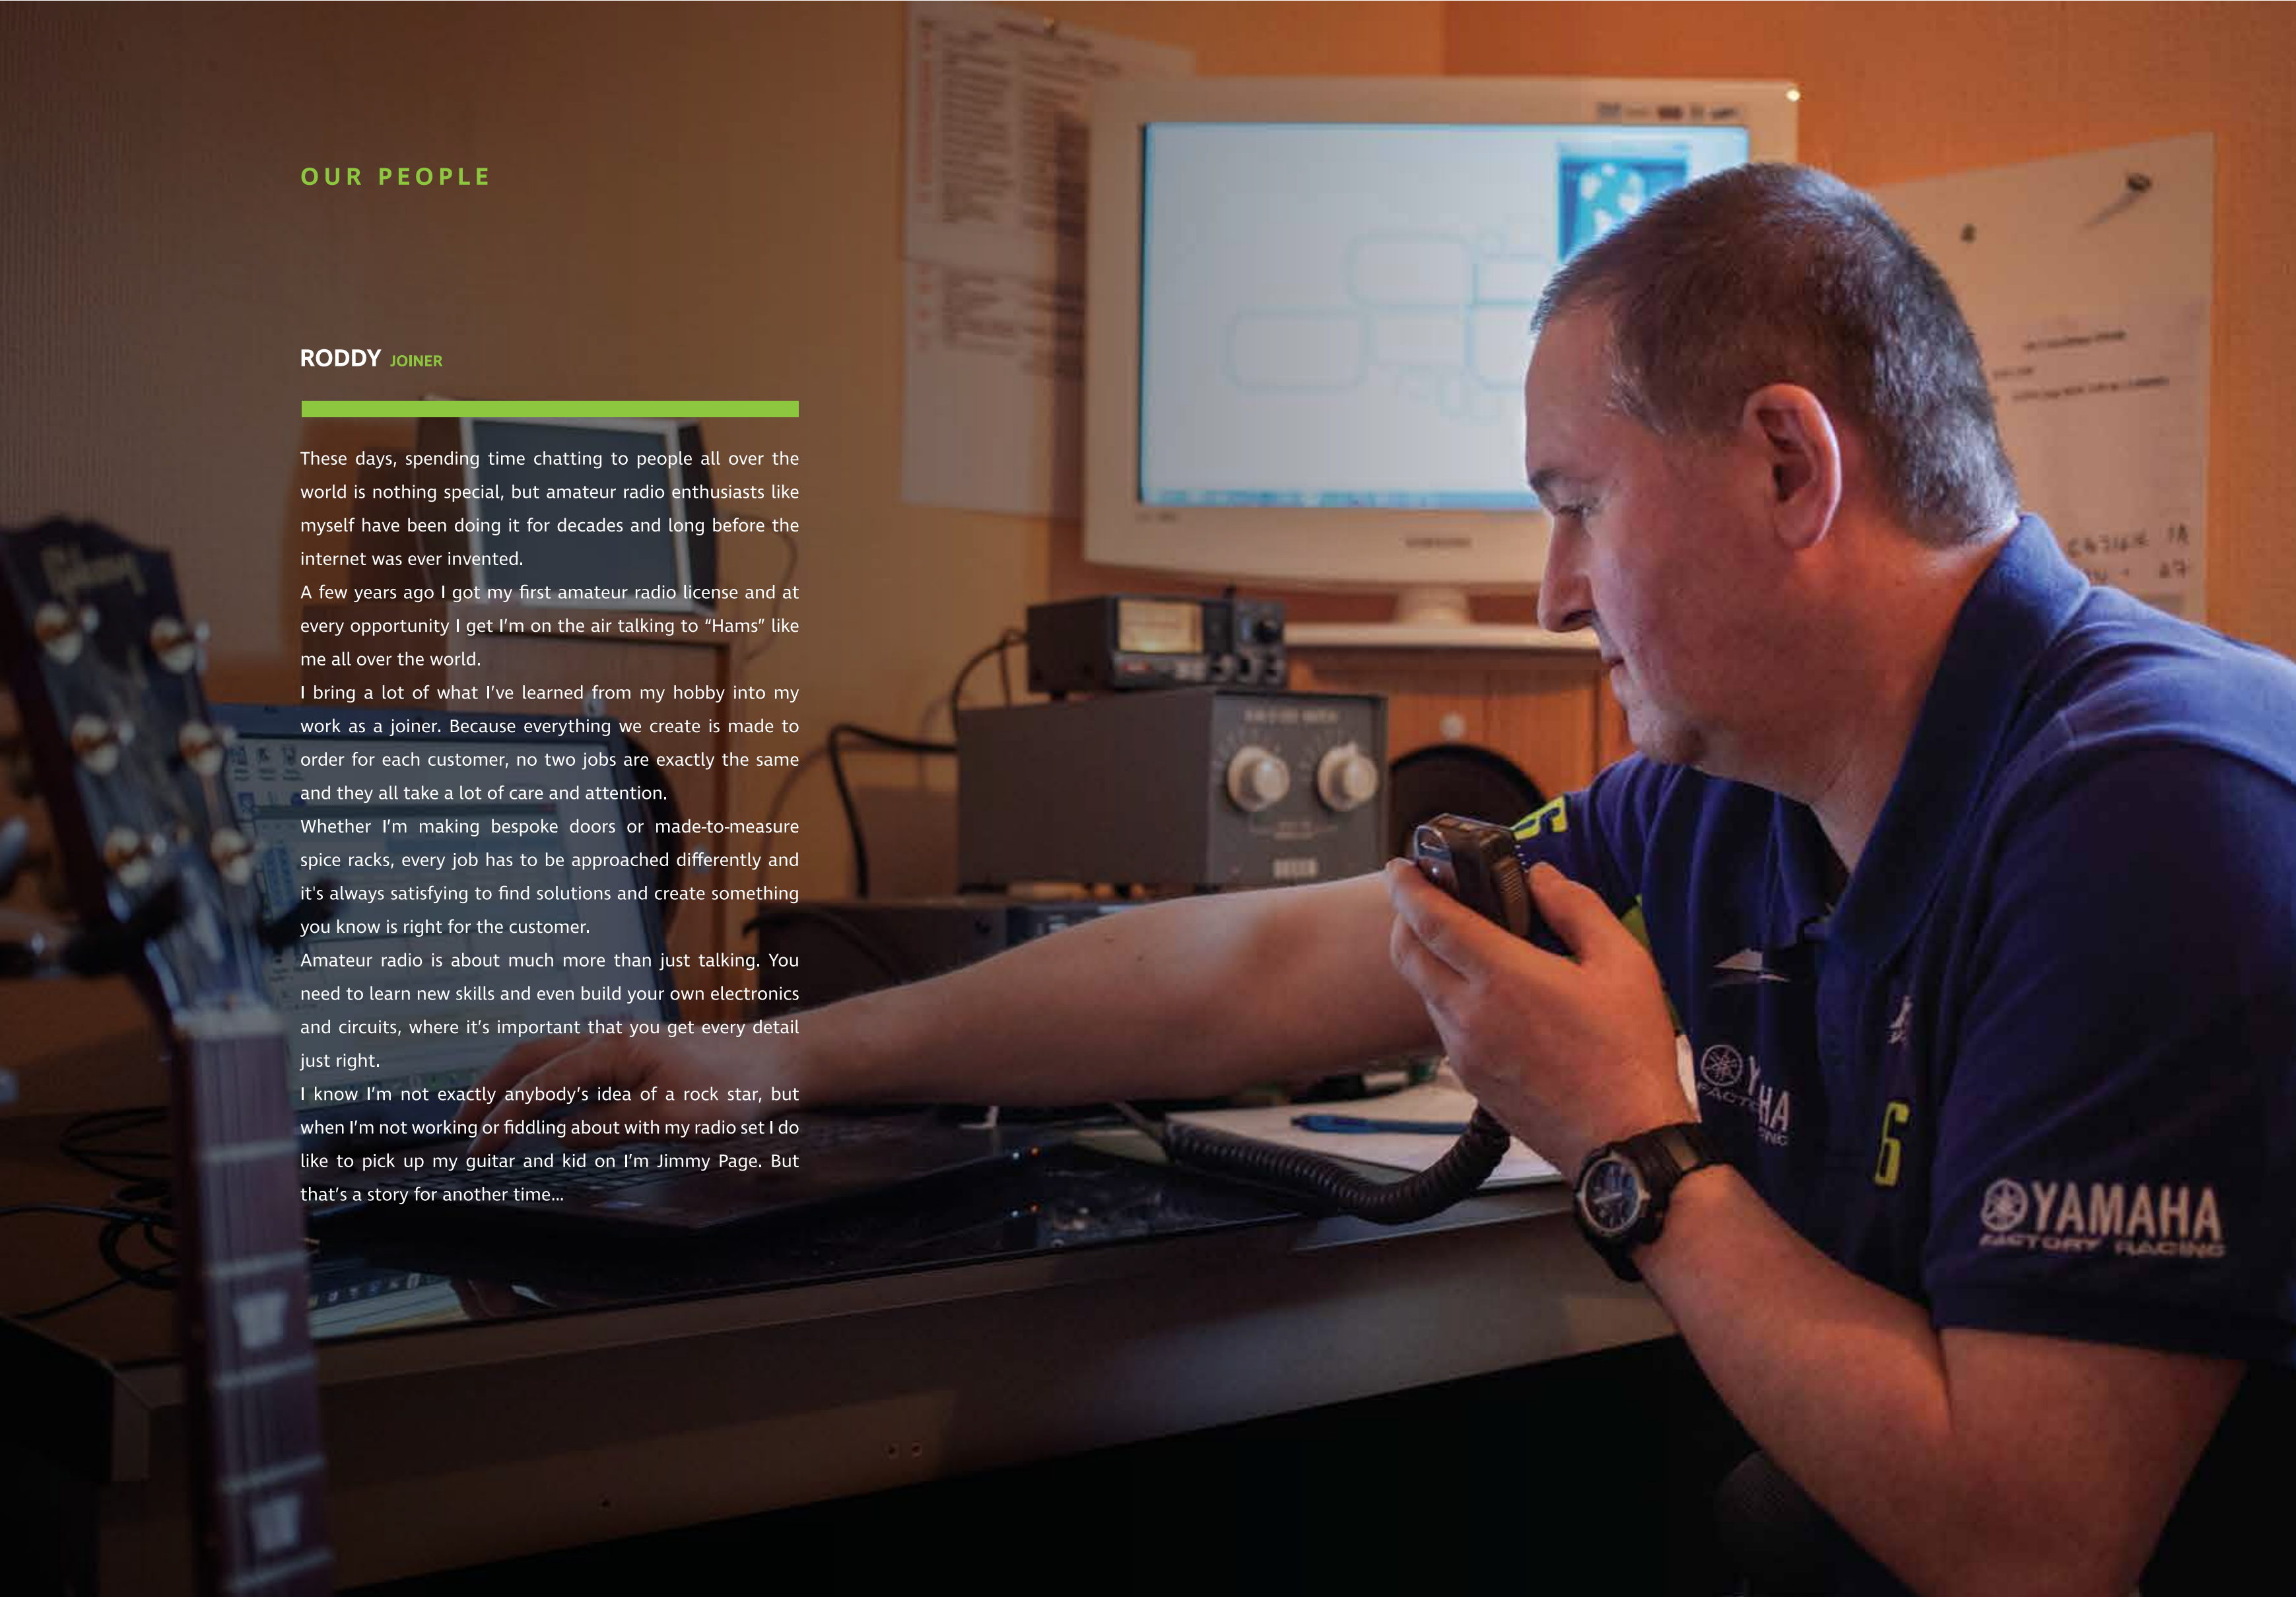

A few years ago I got my first amateur radio license and at every opportunity I get I'm on the air talking to "Hams" like me all over the world.

I bring a lot of what I've learned from my hobby into my work as a joiner. Because everything we create is made to order for each customer, no two jobs are exactly the same and they all take a lot of care and attention.

Whether I'm making bespoke doors or made-to-measure spice racks, every job has to be approached differently and it's always satisfying to find solutions and create something you know is right for the customer.

Amateur radio is about much more than just talking. You need to learn new skills and even build your own electronics and circuits, where it's important that you get every detail just right.

I know I'm not exactly anybody's idea of a rock star, but when I'm not working or fiddling about with my radio set I do like to pick up my guitar and kid on I'm Jimmy Page. But that's a story for another time...
